Belief It's current: The reprint was finally released. It actually has tried to collect some more words and references and that book with a BLAST. Against expectations the first and second runs were sold out rather quickly and people asked for them to be back in stock. It's a bit good but here is the reprint! The whole front cover is a collage, something I've always wanted to do.

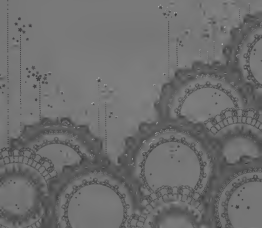

Silly this has become a PDF book

When looking at the manuscript from two years ago. There were a lot of parts where I thought, "Oh I showed it to the editor like this, they'd make me correct the whole thing." There were the ones parts I only made small corrections to, so this time I corrected the whole thing. You see, for "Pseudo-Science II" I got a call from the printer telling me that there were some famous parts that would need coloring. That time I thought that I'd either start coloring myself or just not draw those parts, it was such an embarrassing experience ... Finally

Well, I reconsidered lots of things when re-reading the manuscript

And that's why the new drawings are really okay. Recently I haven't felt the drawing gentle, which is a total disaster for BL artists, so I thought that what I should do. But since there's a big ADULT CHART on the cover I decided to draw them. The gentle: for now I just wanted something short but doing with a safe-ish ending. Is what I started to think. As a result

Let's start with the school door!

The first step in the process is to identify the problem. This involves gathering information about the situation and understanding the needs of the stakeholders involved. Once the problem has been identified, the next step is to develop a plan of action. This plan should outline the steps that need to be taken to address the problem and assign responsibility for each task. The third step is to implement the plan. This involves putting the plan into action and monitoring progress. Finally, the fourth step is to evaluate the results. This involves assessing the effectiveness of the intervention and making adjustments as needed.

Thank you for reading! This book is pretty big for a manga of re-familiar genre, but I'm glad that it feels like a story. It's the first time I got that good feeling, so I really look forward to the final product. I also draw a lot of icons and stars so it doesn't look like a book, but it's not easy to do it just in a while. I'd like to hear your review. This will be the last!
